Zbigniew & Sophia Rek
Double Diamond | California

“ I find it fascinating how a person's outlook on what they can achieve changes when they truly understand their own motivation.

For Zbigniew and Sophia Rek, it's time to celebrate. Not just because they have achieved Double Diamond status. Not just because they invited daughters Dorota and Paula and families to enjoy the lavish accommodations at Achievers 2009 in Orlando. Not just because they followed that up with a Bahamas cruise for the whole family. ("It was the best family reunion we've ever had," says Sophia.) Not even because their 5-year-old granddaughter, Anna Sofia, had a blast and says she's ready to go on the next trip "right now!"

It could be time to celebrate just because of their personal and professional accomplishments. But for this couple, the greatest celebration comes from introducing many, many others to the AMWAY GLOBAL™ business opportunity. The Reks savor those accomplishments as much as their own.

Zbig and Sophia's resolve to raise others up to new levels of achievement is strong. "We see so many talented people. Every IBO, no matter what level they are in their business, is just as capable as we are of reaching their goals," says Zbig. "You know, we find it's a lot more fun to celebrate a downline's success than our own." And each day, new business owners from all over the world join the organization the Reks have created.

CHANGING LIVES STARTS WITH LISTENING

Because everyone's dreams are different, Sophia begins relationships by asking questions. She seeks to understand life and happiness from the other's perspective. "It's amazing how much we can learn when we take time to listen," she says. "I find it fascinating how a person's outlook on what they can achieve changes when they truly understand their own motivation. It becomes the driving force for what they can accomplish in this business filled with possibilities."

In helping others understand what motivates them, she and Zbig have discovered something about their own source of motivation. "Knowing I can make a positive difference in somebody's life is the greatest feeling," says Sophia. "We wake up every morning excited to help, inspire, and encourage people to go after their dreams. My husband is a master at working with people and building good relationships."

GOING FOR THE WIN-WIN

In previous occupations—both were research scientists and Zbig was also a software engineer—the couple enjoyed financial security, status, and intellectual challenges.

But they found it difficult to endure the “win-at-all-costs-to-get-ahead” mentality dominating their work cultures.

Zbig explains, “Any time you compete against co-workers, it becomes a win-lose situation. In our business, even the success of a total stranger can inspire a person to achieve much more than they ever thought possible. Imagine what I can do for people who come to believe that they can put their trust in my teachings?”

For Zbig, the most fascinating part of their business is building people up, strengthening their self-confidence, and empowering them. Ramping up for a speaking engagement schedule for the year, Zbig and Sophia say they’re excited to continue with the work they both love: teaching and inspiring others to achieve excellence. Zbig says, “Good leaders should also be great followers. Following our mentors has made a huge difference in our lives. Now, we’re committed to paying it forward by mentoring others toward success.”

In their experience of introducing others to the AMWAY GLOBAL™ business opportunity, the Reks have identified several characteristics they believe are shared by the most successful Independent Business Owners. “They are persistent, consistent, and resilient,” says Zbig. “They are people-oriented, teachable, humble enough to accept change, and they dream big.”

Zbig and Sophia have also identified what works for them. Rather than working apart in separate offices, they choose to do business together at the kitchen table. Sophia admires her husband’s vision, persistence, and self-discipline: “He’s a gentleman who dearly loves his family and this business. He’s committed to the well-being of all the people in his life.” Zbig credits his wife’s ability to nurture growth: “As our relationship matures and our AMWAY GLOBAL business grows stronger, we continue to become closer and happier. Sophia has this amazing warmth that attracts people, no matter what country we’re in ... she keeps our marriage blossoming and our business growing.”

Another source of confidence for the Reks is the AMWAY GLOBAL products they sell. “I’m really excited about the science and quality behind these products,” says Sophia. “I’m always mesmerized when visiting the Nutrilite Health Institute in Buena Park, California. There is a room containing hundreds of colorful plant concentrates that go into NUTRILITE® products.” She also raves about having “ARTISTRY® skin care products to help make us beautiful, and NUTRILITE supplements to help keep us healthy.”

HAPPINESS BEYOND BOUNDS

The Reks enjoy the California scenery while hiking together in the hills near their home. Sophia says, “The area is charming and the views are breathtaking. When Zbig goes by himself, I know he’ll return bursting with ideas and another big vision for what’s next.”

To relax, Zbig likes to solve complex math problems. “He’s like a bulldog,” says Sophia. “He stays on a problem, even if it takes a week to solve it.” Zbig also speaks seven languages fluently and uses this skill to engage business partners all over the world.

As a young family, the Reks came to the United States from Poland. Maintaining their heritage and traditions is important.

It’s amazing how much we can learn when we take time to listen.

The average monthly gross income earned by “active” IBOs was $115 (U.S.)/$181 (CAN.).

The percentage of IBOs who achieved Double Diamond and above qualification in FY08 was .0038%.

Based on an independent survey during 2001, approximately 66% of all IBOs of record were found to be active. “Active” means an IBO attempted to make a retail sale, or presented the Amway Global Independent Business Owner Compensation Plan, or received bonus money, or attended a company or IBO meeting in the year 2000.

“Gross Income” means the amount received from retail sales, minus the cost of goods sold, plus the amount of Performance Bonus retained. There may be significant business expenses, mostly discretionary, that may be greater in relation to income in the first years of operation. The success depicted may reflect income and investments outside the IBO Plan.

We feel very lucky and proud to be a part of unlimited possibilities for family, our business partners, and ourselves.

They return to Poland often, spending time at a second home there. One Christmas tradition is especially treasured: “It’s a big event to make pierogi (Polish dumplings),” says Sophia. “The kitchen is full of family and laughter, and some healthy arguing about how many eggs, flour, and other ingredients to put in.”

Zbig adds, “We’ve also confirmed the Polish blood in our granddaughter; she loves Polish sausage. Fortunately, she also loves NUTRILITE® supplements for kids.”

Ever enthusiastic to spend time with Grandma and Grandpa, Anna Sofia provides the Reks all the inspiration they need to build on their successes. During their Diamond Club trip to Hawaii, Sophia enjoyed watching her granddaughter splash in the pool, eat breakfast on their terrace overlooking the ocean, and build sand castles ... “The images warm my heart,” she says. “It makes both of us want to build the business bigger and stronger.”

“We feel very lucky and proud to be a part of unlimited possibilities for family, our business partners, and ourselves.”

The possibilities are unlimited, indeed. As are their reasons to celebrate.

The Great Life

Ganesh & Neha Shenoy
Founders Executive Diamond | Michigan

Ganesh and Neha Shenoy remember when their successful careers tied them to traditional business schedules and their days were spent in cubicles. He was a recruiting manager in the automotive industry. She was a software business consultant. And their two young sons were in day care.

“When we decided to put our focus on our AMWAY GLOBAL™ business, we weren’t just looking for a good life, we were looking for a great life,” says Ganesh.

Ganesh started the AMWAY GLOBAL business while single and working full time. After he and Neha married, he continued to build it on his own. When Ganesh earned Emerald, Neha decided to join him. “I believed in the products, and saw Ganesh’s passion grow and the potential this business offered,” she recalls.

Working together, the Shenoy’s have helped mentor and build strong downline leadership teams—teams that have continued to grow.

PROFESSIONAL APPROACH MEETS ENTREPRENEURIAL DRIVE

Reflecting on their own path to AMWAY GLOBAL independent business ownership, Ganesh and Neha say they are able to draw on their experiences in their previous work lives to bring people from diverse careers into their group. In many cases, their downline business owners are already successful in their fields, and become strong leaders in the business. They find the ease of start-up, no overhead and warehousing, and minimal costs to be significant benefits not often seen in other business start-ups.

“We’ve all had similar experiences in the workplace,” says Ganesh. “We share some of the same frustrations of working for others, but more importantly, we share the ability to set clear goals, stay focused, and get the job done.”

Ganesh and Neha are confident that they offer a better option. “We help others find greatness in this business that they won’t find in other jobs,” says Ganesh.

These are the memories we carry with us forever. I'll never forget their faces. Great family memories are the real rewards of this business.

Ganesh offers this advice to new business owners who launch a new AMWAY GLOBAL business while employed elsewhere: “Start with 20 to 30 hours a week in addition to your regular job. Build a balanced business and you can begin to replace existing income. Even if you don’t want to give up your current career, this will give you something to fall back on if something were to happen in your profession.”

The couple works to promote the success of each of the business owners in their group. “To encourage them to keep going forward, we send extra cases of products we think they should try,” says Neha. “It’s a nice bonus, because it doesn’t cost them anything to hand out samples to their customers, and sampling is a great way to improve retail volume.”

MAKING MEMORIES TOGETHER

In helping new IBOs build their businesses, Neha says she’s never disappointed with the profound impact this business can have on family happiness, whether people pursue the business full or part time.

The Shenoy's are living proof. They are active members of a Hindu temple near their home. They support an organization focused on improving life for autistic children. And Ganesh and Neha derive enormous personal fulfillment from their own children, 6-year-old Aditya and 2-year-old Ayush.

"I get to be a part of their everyday lives," says Ganesh, beaming as he recounts experiencing milestones with his sons. "Hearing first words, encouraging first steps, teaching values, having fun... these are the memories we carry with us forever. I'll never forget their faces. Great family memories are the real rewards of this business."

Summertime on the lake behind their home is treasured. Neha is an avid water skier, and Ganesh is happiest behind the wheel of their ski boat. Aditya loves the thrill of inner-tubing, while Ayush is learning to float with a life jacket in the safety of Mom and Dad's arms.

The Shenoy's loved Achievers 2009 in Orlando. Says Neha, "There was so much for our family to do... swimming, water slides, and playing in the sand. It was exciting from the minute we checked in. Our 6-year-old ran from room to room in our suite, just giggling with delight."

She compares this experience with the alternative. "Our jobs couldn't have provided for such lavish vacations. There would have been no suites and certainly no limos. And, our vacation time would have been limited to just a couple of weeks per year."

The couple nurtures their native culture in the next generation, speaking Hindi at home and teaching traditions. "Neha and I want our kids to know their heritage and be fluent in both languages," says Ganesh. "As our boys get older, we plan to all travel to India a few times a year."

Keeping family in the center of their life is paramount. "We don't have to plan around our jobs," says Ganesh, "Neha and I are able to plan our life around our family."

TAKING CARE OF EACH OTHER

The Shenoy's also make time for their health—as individuals and as a couple. Their daily routine includes a workout at the gym and taking NUTRILITE® dietary supplements. Having recently earned his black belt in Tae Kwon Do, Ganesh credits The Perfect Pack for giving him a physical and mental edge.

Neha says, "We enjoy having a schedule that gives us 'couple time.' We believe that this keeps our marriage strong and happy."

She reflects on a fantastic trip with Ganesh to Peter Island. "It's paradise: We sailed on a catamaran, walked hills, and relaxed on the beach. No cell phones, no laptops. Every couple should have this alone time together—to connect on a deeper level, without distractions of a busy life."

THE RIPPLE EFFECT

Ganesh and Neha dared to dream for more, and they urge others to do the same. "Make sure your dreams are bigger than your daily struggles," says Ganesh. "Learn everything you can from your upline mentors, develop a strong clientele to build volume, and leaders to build your business."

Neha adds, "It's amazing to think that right now our business grows because of the hard work and dedication we put into it when we were only able to dream about the rewards. We call it the ripple effect."

That ripple extends through every aspect of the Shenoy's lives—and to each new business owner touched by their leadership.

Learn everything you can from your upline mentors. Develop a strong clientele to build volume and leaders to build your business.

The average monthly gross income earned by "active" IBOs was $115 (U.S.)/$181 (CAN.).

Reaping the Benefits

Theo & Maribel Galan
Executive Diamond | Dominican Republic

When they need inspiration, Theo and Maribel Galan look no further than their refrigerator door. “We have been Amway Global Independent Business Owners for over 10 years,” says Maribel. “Every goal and dream we’ve posted on the fridge has been reached, so we keep adding them.”

Today the Galans’ fridge is in the gourmet kitchen of their spacious Santo Domingo penthouse. They spend time taking short vacations throughout the year as a family, going to the beach or to the mountains, screening movies in their in-home theater, and enjoying being together with their daughter Bianca Lorena, 12, and sons Theo Jr., 21, and Kendrick, 18.

“Since we achieved the Executive Diamond level, another goal is to enjoy having even more time for ourselves and our kids,” says Maribel. “We see time as one of the precious gifts we’ve earned through years of hard work building our business. Watching us work hard and achieve our goals has been an excellent education for our kids. They’ve learned how to sell, be organized and focused, develop good mentoring skills, and the dedication to build a successful and sustainable business.”

Both of the Galans’ sons are building their own AMWAY GLOBAL™ businesses while attending college. “Theo Jr. is attending a local college and lives with us,” says Maribel. “Kendrick is studying music in Miami. His 19th-floor apartment on the bay side comes with a beautiful view of the marina—not the typical lifestyle of a college student!”

Unpacking from their latest business trip to Hawaii where they attended Diamond Club, the couple reflects on the decisions that transformed notes on the refrigerator door into realized goals and dreams.

MORE THAN PROVIDING

Theo and Maribel were already hardworking business owners when they were introduced to the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity. They were accustomed to working days, evenings, and weekends. “The used car business provided well for us,” says Theo. “But it felt like we were constantly struggling, day-in and day-out, just to maintain an adequate level of income to support our family.”

IT WAS A LIVING, BUT THEY WANTED MORE

They found it with the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity. After years of working hard selling product and sponsoring others to do the same, they are reaping the benefits. “Besides the financial stability, we have more family time,” says Theo. “We’re able to enjoy the simple things that make family life special: sharing meals, watching movies, going to church, and going on vacations together. We did work hard and made sacrifices to get to this point. But now, our priority is family.”

Maribel agrees. “We do some business traveling, but the difference is that I know when I return from a two-week trip, I have total control over my time,” she says. “We can schedule nothing for a couple of days except for time with our sweet daughter. We can’t imagine working any other way.”

PARTNERSHIP BEGINS AT HOME

Theo and Maribel look to each other as partners in life and business. Theo says the unity they’ve achieved is their biggest asset. “Maribel’s strengths balance my weaknesses, as mine do hers,” he says.

People trust Maribel because she has a big heart.
That is her gift.

THEO GALAN

People respect Theo because they feel how much he cares about them.

MARIBEL GALAN

“There’s no question we’re on the same path, and there is never competition between us—there’s only collaboration. We hope other couples learn from us—the best partnership they can create is the one with their own partner.”

Theo describes Maribel as the pillar upon which the family and business is built—an incredible entrepreneur and dreamer. “She’s brilliant in business and a great mom. People trust her because she has a big heart. That is her gift.”

Maribel says she married her soul mate, a man with a noble heart and a lot of patience. “People respect Theo because they feel how much he cares about them.”

GROWING THROUGH THE BUSINESS

The Galans aren’t satisfied with keeping their gifts to themselves. “One of the biggest blessings we have now that we never could do before is to help people in need,” says Maribel. “If God gives us all these blessings, it’s not for us to keep them but to share them with the less fortunate.” The Galans join others in their group to provide support to hundreds of families in a nearby rural area. “They have so little,” says Maribel. “At Christmastime, we make this a family activity. The kids look forward to it, and we spend several weeks together wrapping and packing gifts.”

For the Galans, another important part of their job description is making a difference in the lives of families within their group. “We understand this is a business that sells products, but we are here to impact people’s lives, too,” says Maribel. “With every friendship we develop, we create another partnership and build hope. We’re interested in people first. By helping new IBOs take small steps in the beginning, we can help them improve their lifestyle and reach their goals and dreams.”

The Galans feel that their impact in the Spanish-speaking community has been especially noteworthy. “With our growth and our reputation, we are able to lead by example,” says Maribel. “It means a lot to see another Hispanic person be successful, and even more to see them help others grow... they see us as an example of what they can achieve.”

Theo adds, “This business is for everyone regardless of their background who has the desire to work hard to accomplish their goals and dreams.”

Some, says Theo, build the business looking only to earn extra income.

That’s OK. But in time, he says, “People realize there are goals and dreams at stake, and they realize the extent that others look for mentorship. I don’t know anybody who hasn’t told me that they haven’t grown in some way through this business.”

In their relationships with new Amway Global IBOs, the Galans encounter goals and dreams of all shapes and sizes. Some want large homes, luxury cars, and yachts. Some want to pay for their children’s education, supplement their income, upgrade their lifestyle, or simply enjoy the products they love.

Before they can move from refrigerator to reality, goals and dreams take work. Says Maribel: “It wasn’t always easy for us. We followed the Amway Global IBO Compensation Plan and our mentor’s advice. If we can do it, we believe anybody can.”

The average monthly gross income earned by “active” IBOs was $115 (U.S.)/$181 (CAN.).

Based on an independent survey during 2001, approximately 66% of all IBOs of record were found to be active.

Recipe for Success

Youngjo & Oksoo Han
Executive Diamond | Ontario

Youngjo and Oksoo Han have just returned from a 10-day whirlwind tour of Europe with their children, Jennifer, 15, and Brian, 14. In spite of the time difference and the fact they've been home less than 24 hours, they're rested and chipper.

"It was a wonderful time," Youngjo recounts. "Just being together and having the time to talk was good."

Hoping to have time for each other is one of the reasons the Hans became Amway Global Independent Business Owners.

In recent months, the family has enjoyed taking several trips together, including visits to Hawaii and Orlando. And they are planning a trip to Korea. "I couldn't imagine this lifestyle before we joined Amway Global," Oksoo says. "We believe God has given us lots of blessings and life solutions through Amway Global. We want to dedicate ourselves to helping others experience blessings too."

Traveling offers the family a chance to grow together. "It is like a dream for us," says Youngjo. "Through traveling, we have learned a lot about the meaning and value of life together—especially my two children."

"During the trip to Europe, our children also developed an appreciation for helping others," which is great, says Oksoo.

"They appreciate our dedication to our AMWAY GLOBAL™ business, our partners, and the company."

MINDSET OF A MARATHONER

The Hans have also found some surprising strengths within themselves.

"I love to run marathons!" says Youngjo with enthusiastic glee. What started out as mild curiosity a few years ago quickly grew into a passionate pursuit. Now he trains year-round, participating in two marathons per year.

Oksoo didn't always understand his motivation. "One day I asked him, 'Why do you do these marathons?'" she says. "He answered, 'A marathon is like life's journey.'"

In an early marathon experience, Youngjo had an epiphany: "This is a metaphor for life." Since then, he's used this insight to encourage his business partners to stay the course when things get tough. Youngjo states, "Many runners stop before reaching their goal. I stress the importance of endurance, pursuing a goal, and embodying the spirit of a marathon runner."

LACING UP

Growing up, both Youngjo and Oksoo accepted a lot of responsibility. "I was the eldest daughter in my family," says Oksoo. "In our culture, I was expected to take care of my younger brothers and sister... These experiences gave me the ability to relate to many different people."

Youngjo grew up in a small city. He was his parents' second child, but as the eldest son he was expected to take care of his brother and sisters as well. Oksoo calls him responsible, patient, and persistent.

He went on to become a textile engineer in a research lab. She taught English grammar at a high school. Even then, they were a great team. "This business requires good people skills, the willingness to learn about the business, and dedication to work hard," Youngjo says.

ENTERING THE RACE

So what brought them halfway around the world? "Where we lived in Korea was extremely competitive and stressful," Oksoo says.

About a year before they decided to move to Canada, Youngjo was selected to attend a language training course in Ontario. "He was very impressed by what he saw here," Oksoo says. Soon she was sold on the idea of moving.

With a toddler and baby in tow, they arrived at the airport with only their suitcases, very little cash, and the address to a hotel Youngjo had reserved online.

They both had earned master's degrees in Korea. "It meant nothing here. We had to start over from scratch," says Oksoo. For a time, she ran a day care out of their home and did translation; he took whatever jobs he could find. Eventually, she opened a Montessori school and he started an import textiles business. Both were hugely successful operations, but they came with a steep price. "I often worked six, seven days a week," Oksoo says. "This was not the life I wanted. I wanted to change my lifestyle."

Oksoo was introduced to the AMWAY GLOBAL™ business opportunity when a friend from church recommended NUTRILITE® dietary supplements. “I wanted to learn more about building the business right away!” she recalls. “We were looking for something valuable, something worthy—not just working day and night.”

So despite their demanding schedules, the Hans embarked on a new business venture. “It gave us the passion, the hope, the vision—the lifestyle—we wanted. It allowed us to utilize our talents to help others achieve their goals and dreams,” she says.

Youngjo and Oksoo are also eager to introduce others to their favorite AMWAY GLOBAL products, including ARTISTRY® skin care and the e-Spring® Water Purifier. Youngjo can now install the water purifier, and can often be found helping others install theirs.

COACHING THE TEAM

Helping their partners get the most out of their AMWAY GLOBAL businesses is a priority for the couple. “We feel a responsibility to help people live better lives,” he says. “It’s one of the reasons we keep striving to become better mentors and why we encourage leadership development in our group.”

Working together is also vital. The Hans believe that “more can be achieved together than separately.”

Oksoo agrees. “It doesn’t matter how fast you grow, only that you keep growing,” she says. “We respect and admire people who’ve been in this business longer than we have no matter what their pin level, because they have not given up on their goals and dreams!”

RUNNER’S HIGH

“Without our AMWAY GLOBAL business, we would not have the lifestyle we enjoy today,” believes Youngjo.

“Before we just worked, worked, worked,” says Oksoo. “We had no family time.” Now they can attend Brian’s afternoon basketball games or stay for Jennifer’s ballet practice. Youngjo has set aside Saturday evenings as his time to cook with the kids—with iCook® Cookware, of course.

They are justifiably proud of their strong family bond.

“I see many highly motivated people start their own business but then stop all of a sudden or get off course,” reflects Youngjo. As for the Hans, they are staying the course and pressing on, pursuing their goals and dreams.

Now we have a dream of traveling together with all families in our group ... they deserve all the blessings.

The average monthly gross income earned by “active” IBOs was $115 (U.S.)/$181 (CAN.).

Based on an independent survey during 2001, approximately 66% of all IBOs of record were found to be active.

Contagious Enthusiasm

Charles Li & Lucy Lu
Executive Diamond | Texas

This business brings a powerful opportunity to people suffering in today's economy.

Beyond the goal of financial freedom, building an AMWAY GLOBAL™ business gives IBOs the opportunity to energize, inspire, and lead others to realize their dreams.

For Executive Diamonds Charles Li and Lucy Lu of Houston, Texas, helping others match the success they've achieved and share the joy they've experienced motivates them every day.

“Right now, we feel happy feelings and hope these feelings are contagious,” says Lucy. “We want our enthusiasm to catch on.”

They are deeply grateful to their friends who did the same for them, and to Amway Global for making the opportunity possible. “We have so much appreciation for our uplines,” says Charles. “From them we've received years of care, consideration, love, patience, and teaching.”

He says the Corporation demonstrates its strong commitment to their success through the IBO Compensation Plan, discretionary rewards, and recognition. Expanded support for cultural diversity helps too. “They're helping us with more Chinese language support, with interpreters, Chinese-speaking sales advisors, and product information in Chinese,” Charles says. “All of which is very important to the growth of an organization such as ours, with so many IBOs whose first language is Chinese.”

That support, plus the success of other high achievers, continues to inspire Charles and Lucy. “In the beginning, following our uplines' examples helped us stay focused, learn how to work as a husband and wife team, and find more efficient ways of getting things done,” says Lucy. “Today, these relationships energize us.”

CYCLE OF GROWTH

Charles believes that because this is a business for everybody, almost anyone with a willingness to put in the time and work hard can succeed. “You will be supported in every possible way by people who care about your success,” he says.

Experiencing and expanding the business is like a cycle of growth. “When we start to use the products, we begin to understand the benefit, which helps us sell them to others,” he says. “At the same time, we feel better about our health, beauty, and our quality of life. We feel more confidence in going forward to help others grow their business. When their business grows to a level that can sustain their family, we feel like we're impacting the health and wealth of the world's economy.”

Today, Charles and Lucy are living a harmonious life. As they enjoy more freedom, they are sharpening the clarity of their vision for their group's future. They travel to China a couple times a year to visit their daughter, Li Lu, 20. Because she is also a part of Amway, they've had the privilege of attending some events there with her.

Financially, the couple has never felt more secure. With the means to indulge in little luxuries for their home, their family, and themselves, they continue to pursue their hobbies and take weekly Chinese singing and dancing lessons.

LEARNING, GROWING, TRAINING

With years of accumulated business knowledge in their repertoire, Charles and Lucy invest their time and money generously toward their group's growth. For the nightly training sessions they lead, they recently purchased a classroom. Owning this space has helped reduce distractions during training sessions and enhances their ability to train more people, more often.

They also host cooking demonstrations and exercise sessions in their home. They genuinely love the people they work with, and it shows.

Some of Lucy's best memories come from times they've gathered with friends. She believes that "success belongs to the person who earns it through their own hard work and perseverance." She also acknowledges how gratifying it is to hear and applaud a new success story. "When I succeed in helping someone else, it makes me feel useful to society," she says. "This business brings a powerful opportunity to people suffering in today's economy."

FAMILY FREEDOM AND TIME

When comparing their current family life with days gone by, Charles and Lucy agree that feeling secure financially has helped increase joy and reduce tension in their family. While they continue to work as hard as they did in their previous ventures, their AMWAY GLOBAL™ business gives them the freedom to define the terms and derive the benefits.

The couple enjoys being more involved as parents and watching their young daughter thrive as she explores dancing, singing, basketball, running, and violin lessons. "Rose, 14, has gained a level of self-awareness beyond what most kids her age have," says Lucy, clearly proud of her daughter's accomplishments. "She's great with her friends and cares deeply about each one. When presented with an opportunity to mentor a friend in distress, she acted in a strong, wise, and responsible way."

With days of stress and struggle firmly behind her, Lucy says she feels happier and healthier than ever in her life. "The better I feel about myself, the better I am as a wife, parent, friend, and business partner," she says. "I feel more love and appreciation for everyone in my life and then it comes back to me."

She laughingly remembers it was his big smile that first attracted her to him.

Charles confesses too that his love for Lucy is stronger than ever. He's thrilled with her devotion to their family and business. "We understand each other better. Working side by side, adjusting our communications with each other, and sharing our goals and dreams have brought us closer," he says. "We learned all this from building our AMWAY GLOBAL business together. Once we were able to focus less on ourselves and more as a team, it became a true partnership. Now Lucy and I share so much trust and love. It's a good feeling!"

The average monthly gross income earned by "active" IBOs was $115 (U.S.)/$181 (CAN.).

Based on an independent survey during 2001, approximately 66% of all IBOs of record were found to be active.

Embracing Dreams

Ivan & Carmen Morales

Executive Diamond | Puerto Rico

“Surround yourself with people who've succeeded.
It's healthier for you, your family, and your business.”

stamina

In troubled times, some will choose despair, and others will find strength to rise to the challenge. Just ask Ivan and Carmen Morales. For this couple, rising to the challenge isn't just a way of life, it's a family tradition.

A DAD DETERMINED

"My parents taught me that money isn't the only thing in life. Family and dreams are what matter most," says Ivan. Today Ivan, his wife, Carmen, and their sons share a great legacy passed down by Ivan's parents: family values, the ability to dream, business knowledge, and an AMWAY GLOBAL™ business.

Ivan's parents started their AMWAY GLOBAL business out of desperation after cancer treatments left his mother too ill to work and the family facing bankruptcy. "We had nothing left at one point—no furniture, no cars. "Those days were extremely hard on our family, but Dad always told me how good things were coming to us, we just had to be patient—I believed him." It didn't happen overnight, but through his father's hard work, those dreams came true for the family. They eventually had a car, again—seven cars, actually. "Dad loved his cars," Ivan recalls. But more importantly, the family credits the positive mentality and the support of people in the AMWAY GLOBAL business with giving Ivan's mother a new outlook on life. "I believe that the whole business and what it involves helped her," says Ivan.

BACK TO BASICS

Sadly, the dream they lived as a family didn't last. By age 19, Ivan had lost his father to a car accident and, by age 20, his mother to cancer. After his father's death, many of the downline leaders in his father's business, once qualified at a Diamond level, decided to quit. The business was neglected and failed to requalify.

Ivan and Carmen took on the business when they were expecting their first child. "Just like everyone else who's starting, we had to learn the basics," Carmen says. "We asked questions, and learned from our mistakes.

We're so thankful for all of the tools and resources available to us," including "the training and support we receive from our uplines."

Ivan adds, "We couldn't have come this far without our uplines. They've guided us in the best way possible—with love and patience. They never rushed us. Now looking back, I wished we'd started earlier. We'd be that much more ahead."

"The more we grow in this business, the more I realize just how much I learned from my dad."

LIFESTYLE OF CHOICE

Until she met Ivan, Carmen had never heard of Amway or the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity. When she later learned her father had years ago passed on the business opportunity, she admits being somewhat disappointed. My childhood might "have been very different. My dad always worked hard and late hours to support his family. I regret all the time we lost with him and how much my mom had to take on in his absence."

You've got to have emotional stamina. We've developed this.

For her family, Carmen chooses the independence of business ownership. “Our kids have a very different life than I did growing up. “We couldn’t live any other way,” she says. We do everything together as a family. Ivan and I take turns getting the boys to school and other activities. We go out to eat: sushi is the boys’ favorite.”

The family lives 20 minutes from the beach and goes there a couple times a week to hang out and relax. Ivan and the boys love digging holes and wrestling around in the sand.

Ivan volunteers at the boys’ school. He reads books to the kindergarten class. Carmen says, “He’s the only dad there. I wish more dads could do that.”

A lot of young families they know outside of the business work for someone else and don’t have this kind of flexibility in their schedule. Ivan says, “I’m thrilled that this business gives me the opportunity to both support our family and be with them. We feel our kids will grow into happy and successful adults with the values we both can teach them through this business.”

BUILDING LEADERS

Ivan and Carmen’s approach to business is balanced, and they highly recommend it. “Sell products, buy from yourself, and build belief in others. That’s how the founders did it, right? NUTRILITE®, ARTISTRY®, and our other products open doors along with the Satisfaction Guarantee, quality, and value ... people buy our products with confidence.”

They say one secret to their success is encouraging leadership in those they bring aboard. “We make friends easily, but we don’t carry people. We prepare the groundwork and supply the tools” to support and educate them. “We encourage people to become leaders, and we’re always looking for that next star.”

Relationships matter. Carmen says, “We don’t talk about the cars and money; we emphasize quality time with the people who are special to us and how we’re able to travel around the world together. We talk about the lasting bonds we’ve created with our friends, how our uplines have become our family, so close we go to Peter Island and spend holidays together. We want everyone to have this quality of life—this all happens when you build something good and healthy together. The money comes later if you do it right.”

My parents taught me that money isn’t the only thing in life. Family and dreams are what matter most.

STRENGTH FROM ADVERSITY

Challenging economic times can be the backdrop for successes of all sizes.

“Because of this business, plenty of people are able to make house and car payments,” says Ivan.

“You’ve got to have emotional stamina,” Carmen adds. “We have developed this.”

The couple welcomes challenges because they say each one brings them one step closer to their next goal. “People told us it was impossible, they didn’t believe. If we had listened to those who’d failed, we would be telling a different story today,” she says. “Surround yourself with people who’ve succeeded. It’s healthier for you, your family, and your business.”

Having faced their own difficult times, Ivan and Carmen know what it takes to achieve their goals and dreams—and how they can help others who are looking to do the same.

Learning Leading & Leveraging

Velauther & Thilakawathy Arunasalam

Founders Diamond | Ontario

When Velauther and Thilakawathy Arunasalam (Aruna and Thilaka to their Amway Global friends) began their AMWAY GLOBAL™ business, Thilaka says her knowledge of the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity was limited. “I wanted some extra money, and so we started the business thinking small,” she says. “Our leaders mentored, inspired, and showed us the way with a lot of patience.”

“As we became more familiar with AMWAY GLOBAL products, IBO leaders, and the Corporation, we became better equipped to help others,” Aruna says.

The couple pledges their commitment to new Amway Global Independent Business Owners. We say, “Do what you can and we will do what you cannot. We will never quit on you. When a new person isn’t comfortable talking with others about selling and the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity, we help out with these conversations until the new business owner is ready to go it alone.”

The confidence they show today was not always there. “I was shy and didn’t speak to anyone,” says Thilaka. “Now I am more comfortable with myself and speaking to others. For us, life is richer—it’s changed in every way.” Thilaka says Aruna is a strong mentor today. People relate to his big, friendly personality and appreciate his straightforward, honest approach.

“We have a strong family bond that has grown stronger as we’ve grown the business through the years,” says Aruna. The couple has four sons: Aravin, 33, Anathan, 30, Anu, 28, and Abi, 16. “This business has given us the opportunity to financially take care of our family,” says Aruna. The couple extends their support overseas as well, helping two sisters in Sri Lanka pay for college and more family members displaced by the civil war and living in India.

Helping people is what they do now. “I believe this business can be done by anyone as long as they are willing to dream, have a learning attitude through mentorship, and want to help others succeed,” says Aruna.

Buying the Ranch

Bob & Shelly Kummer

Founders Diamond | Washington

For Bob and Shelly Kummer, a strong work ethic is one of their most powerful assets. Bob was accustomed to working more than 80 hours a week as a telecommunications industry executive. As a corporate director of sales in the hospitality industry, Shelly regularly worked more than 50 hours a week. They found life to be hectic and unfulfilling—until they began channeling their efforts into building their new AMWAY GLOBAL™ business.

“Once we had made the commitment, it was all out. There was no backing out. We ‘bought the ranch’—the AMWAY GLOBAL business was our total focus,” says Shelly.

Bob describes the Amway Global IBO Compensation Plan in terms of delayed gratification—your efforts become an investment in your future. “If you’re going to work hard, it might as well be for yourself.”

The Kummers’ goal was to engage in a business that “was going to give us more time for our marriage first and foremost, and we knew we wanted more time with our family.” Owning their own business has given them control over their schedule and lives. Today, the family spends free time making memories. “I think the thing we like to do most is get on a plane and experience a new place as a family,” says Shelly. “We love doing things with total spontaneity.” We can do that with our own business. The couple travels to cheer on their 15-year-old daughter in horseback riding competitions. Bob takes their 13-year-old son on hunting trips. And, when the spirit moves them, they don’t hesitate to head for a beach to enjoy the sun and sand.

Today, the couple has their sights set on buying a real ranch, not a figurative one to suit their outdoorsy nature. Bob envisions bringing friends and family to the ranch to celebrate an “old-fashioned Christmas.” Shelly is hoping for a home where future generations of Kummers will live the dream of spending abundant quality time with family.

“We’d love a place with more property for our kids,” says Shelly. “And someday, for our grandkids.”

If you’re going to work hard, it might as well be for yourself.

Do the Maximum

Juan & Alicia Ruelas

Founders Diamond | California

When Juan and Alicia Ruelas received their first check from their AMWAY GLOBAL™ business, they saw more than $7.50—they saw potential. “We knew we had done the minimum,” says Alicia, “and we were willing to do the maximum.”

The maximum—commitment, hard work, and perseverance—has helped the couple realize the power of free enterprise. In 2001, Juan fulfilled a boyhood dream and financed a new house for his grandmother who raised him. You can’t reap the rewards without putting forth the effort, says Juan. Owning your own business “helps people realize their goals and dreams,” adds Juan.

Ten years after launching their AMWAY GLOBAL business, Juan and Alicia continue to work hard and reap the rewards of owning their own business. Both have retired from their teaching jobs and are enjoying more time with their three boys, ages 5, 7, and 14. And, Juan plans to take his family and business associates to World Cup 2010 in South Africa.

As they continue to build their AMWAY GLOBAL business, they have embraced a philosophy of perseverance and professionalism. Our business, say the Ruelas, is our career. Alicia remembers a commitment she made early on in the couple’s business endeavor. “I was going to take it as professionally as teaching,” she says. Though retired from the classroom, teaching is still a big part of the couple’s life. The Ruelas guide and mentor new IBOs through a process of learning, practicing, and leading by example.

Juan believes that relationship skills are essential. “Care for others,” he says. “People don’t care how much you know until they know how much you care.” To fellow Spanish-speakers, he offers this message of encouragement: “Sí, se puede.” Yes, we can.

Focus on the Future

Nancy Siatyee & Kevin Kim
Founders Diamond | New York

Nancy Siatyee and her husband, Kevin Kim, had long dreamed of career independence. As a teenager growing up in Malaysia, Nancy knew she wanted to work for herself. Kevin had a similar goal and started the couple's AMWAY GLOBAL™ business, while still managing a Chinese restaurant full time.

During a visit to Amway headquarters in Ada, Michigan, for the company's 35th anniversary celebration, Nancy met a diverse group of Amway Global Independent Business Owners. They encouraged her and provided the motivation to really engage and grow the couple's business. Upon returning home, Nancy and Kevin acted on the advice and encouragement they received. They worked hard, persevered, and soon had a new Ruby pin to show for their efforts! Finally the dream Nancy had held for so long, started to take shape in reality.

Their dream job lets Kevin and Nancy spend time with their 12-year-old son, Victor. Together they have traveled the world, hosted family gatherings, and tuned in to basketball, football, and soccer matches. Nancy loves cooking with iCook® Cookware to prepare healthy meals for her family and friends, including curried pork, chicken, shrimp, and tofu dishes.

In light of today's troubled economy, Nancy is eager to share the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity with others. "We encourage them to look at their future and what that means to their family and their retirement," she says.

"There are people who are laid off from their jobs, and they are seriously looking at what the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity can offer them," Kevin says. I hope that the people who join us in this business will be as successful if not more successful than we are."

The couple claims hard work and persistence are important attributes. Everything we do is aimed toward helping ourselves and others reach their goals and dreams," says Kevin.

While working hard to build their business, Kevin and Nancy are also nurturing the future of their family, encouraging son Victor to take part. "If you ask him what he wants to do in the future," says Nancy, "he'll say he wants to become an Amway Global Independent Business Owner."

I hope that the people who join us in this business will be as successful if not more successful than we are.

Finding Freedom

Jose & Leity Cohen

Diamond | Florida

“Leaving Cuba was our first dream,” says Jose Cohen. He arrived in the U.S. as a political refugee on a raft. Leity, his wife, arrived by plane. Before coming to the U.S., they felt that there was no hope, no dreaming. When they arrived they had nothing in the bank, but they had their freedom.

The couple used this newfound freedom to build their AMWAY GLOBAL™ business.

“If we did not work hard to build an AMWAY GLOBAL business, we don’t know what we’d be doing today,” says Jose. “We wouldn’t be enjoying the freedom, financial stability, and lifestyle we have now,” believes Jose.

As Diamonds, Jose and Leity have more time to mentor and train other Amway Global Independent Business Owners. The couple’s 3,000-sq.-ft. home allows them to host intimate product meetings and interactive beauty clinics. They can even hold 100-person training sessions on their expansive patio. “This is a servicebusiness,” says Jose. “Our home belongs to everybody.”

“The mentorship of our upline has helped us to grow the most,” says Jose. “We pay it forward by helping others. We have developed good business and personal relationships...and we work hard at it.”

Family unity, believes Leity, is the ultimate reward of independent business ownership. “We shop, we go out to dinner, we do whatever we want, because our business schedule doesn’t hold us back. We really have a blessed family life.” Son Isaac lives in Cuba. Yanelis, 25, Yamila, 23, Amanda, 4, and Kevin, 3, live with the couple.

In conversations with prospective Amway Global Independent Business Owners, Leity says the couple focuses on the opportunity to help others reach their goals and dreams, and enjoy the same freedoms in life that they have.

Jose echoes her sentiment, and shares a goal and dream he has yet to realize: “To one day be able to take the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity to a free Cuba.”

Our business schedule doesn't hold us back.

Better Together

Sid & Roop Ganguly

Diamond | Ontario

When Sid and Roop Ganguly married in 1998, they embarked on more than a new life together—they became partners in building a business and their dreams.

Sid started the AMWAY GLOBAL™ business in 1997, while continuing to work as an accountant. “I’ve always wanted to do something that was my own,” he says. “I didn’t have a lot of money to invest, but I did have lots of time, ambition, drive, and determination.”

When he and Roop married, the couple committed to growing the business together.

“I married him and the business at the same time,” laughs Roop.

The success of their business has given them the freedom to live life on their own terms. Working side by side as life and business partners enriches the couple’s relationship, believes Sid, and has made life better for their family, which includes 9-year-old son Arjun and Sid’s father, a Platinum Independent Business Owner who lives with them.

“We’re not stressed out, we’re not stretched for time,” says Sid. “We read more, have time for the gym, to take a walk, to spend more time together.”

Along the way, the couple has found that the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity brings out the best in each of them. Their business benefits from their shared work ethic and complementary strengths. For Sid, it is the ability to build strong relationships with people, especially other Independent Business Owners. “I learned how to become a better person; I learned how to develop the business; I learned how to lead others,” he says.

Roop brings a cool, calm, and patient demeanor to the business that her husband admires, as well as an ability to generate sales volume and achieve goals. “I never knew that I had the hidden potential in me,” says Roop. “The business helped me come out of my shell.”

For both Sid and Roop, the blessings of the business extend beyond their immediate family to those they are helping through their AMWAY GLOBAL business.

“We have people from every faith, every country in our organization,” says Sid. “It’s very beautiful; sometimes I get tears in my eyes. I am proud we built it with our own hands.”

Part of Something Big

Partha & Sandhya Suresh

Diamond | California

When a colleague introduced Partha Suresh (who goes by Suresh) to the AMWAY GLOBAL™ business opportunity, he saw a way to realize his dream of starting a business. A year later, his wife, Sandhya, joined him in building the business, and six months after that, left her job as a biomedical engineer to build the business full time. “Not because I was replacing my income,” she says, “but because I saw potential.” After achieving Emerald, Suresh left his job as a software engineer to work the business full time with his wife.

Living in California near Silicon Valley with son Shervin, 11, and daughter Shefali, 7, Suresh and Sandhya find prospects among fellow engineers who share their entrepreneurial passion. Suresh says the traditional path for an entrepreneur includes some challenges. Some entrepreneurs struggle with the lack of capital or guidance, which can make it difficult to reach their goals, believes Suresh.

Minimal risk and maximum support set the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity apart. With minimal investment, anyone can own an AMWAY GLOBAL business, and the great thing is that Amway Global is there for you and will support you all the way. “We are able to do it—and to help others who are willing to start,” says Suresh.

Family is a priority. Owning their own business allows the Sureshes the flexibility to spend time with their children. “It’s given us choices,” says Sandhya. “Our life right now is revolving around the kids, building the business, and helping people.”

They travel to India at least once a year to reconnect with extended family, many of whom are part of the business. At home in California, they create a special family for their downlines, many of whom are immigrants without local ties. “They want to be part of something. We keep it family-oriented. It’s so much fun. It’s great,” says Sandhya.

For their children and the young families they meet, the Sureshes seek to be living examples of the possibilities. “This business is not just for us,” says Suresh. “So many young couples and families can realize their goals and dreams. Not just for money, but for their families.”

Our life right now is revolving around the kids, building the business, and helping people.

Emerald

Reaching Emerald is a significant achievement, the result of sustained effort and successful leadership. As Emeralds, IBOs have demonstrated their ability to sell, recruit, train, motivate, and teach others to do the same. They have built healthy organizations and are reaping the rewards of their hard work.

Cindy Khor | California

Living the dream: Former hair salon owner Cindy Khor loves that “this business is for everyone.” Her experience helps her appreciate the minor start-up cost that makes the AMWAY GLOBAL™ business opportunity affordable.

Looking to the future: “Promoting better health is a big focus of my group,” says Cindy, who has helped improve her own health with NUTRILITE® vitamin, mineral, and dietary supplements, the eSpring® Water Purifier, and iCook® Cookware. “Now I’m helping to improve the lives of others!”

Krystyna & Jaroslaw Maksymowicz | New York

Living the dream: Polish immigrants Jaroslaw and Krystyna Maksymowicz jumped at the chance to build an AMWAY GLOBAL business. “It’s a tremendous opportunity” for positively impacting lives,” he says. Krystyna agrees. “Our daughters know that this business has afforded us many opportunities such as international travel.”

Looking to the future: As their business continues to grow, so does their joy, Jaroslaw says. It comes from being able “to support other families on their way to a better lifestyle.”

Kausi & Jey Selvarajah | Ontario

Living the dream: The couple saw the AMWAY GLOBAL business as an opportunity to enjoy more family time (with daughters Suruthi, 10, and Ragavi, 8). “It’s allowed me to drop two jobs and cut the third (as a health counselor) to part time,” says Kausi.

Looking to the future: Jey, an IT specialist, hopes to build a home for children orphaned by war in Sri Lanka, their homeland. “Thanks to the mentorship we’ve received through this business,” he says, “my goals and dreams are big.”

Bibiana & Pedro Terhon | North Carolina

Living the dream: Pedro and Bibiana Terhon enjoy taking daughters Evette, 11, and Leslie, 7, to school and volunteering in their classrooms. “Initially, he feared we’d be spending less time with our girls,” Bibiana says. “Then he realized we could build a better future for them.”

Looking to the future: Originally from Mexico, the Terhons look forward to expanding their AMWAY GLOBAL business internationally. “We feel so blessed to have been introduced to the AMWAY GLOBAL business opportunity,” says Bibiana. “It’s our life’s purpose to share it with many more people.”

American Hero Awards

First round to be announced at Achievers 2010.

Amway Global IBOs are heroes in many ways.

From overcoming adversity, to mentoring others, to serving country, to giving back, Amway Global IBOs make contributions and sacrifices to make this world a better place.

Nominate your hero in one of four categories – determination, leadership, patriotism, generosity – at www.AchieveMagazine.com.

Note that all entries become the property of Amway Global.

With his rendition of “I am an Amway IBO” at Diamond Club in Maui, Shivaram Kumar brought the house down.

No one knew the mild-mannered Executive Diamond had a secret superpower.

Now we’re on a mission to discover other hot Amway Global talents. Can you belt out a ballad? Mesmerize with magic? Tango as a twosome? If so, you could end up on stage at Achievers 2011.

From all auditions, a panel of entertainment professionals will select 10 performers for The IBO Talent Show. At the event, IBOs will vote to select one winner.

Who will be the first IBO Talent Show winner?

For complete rules and audition guidelines, visit www.AchieveMagazine.com.

People Are Walking!

This summer, in 70 cities throughout the United States and Canada, Amway Global IBOs and employees are walking for Easter Seals ... and celebrating raising $30 million over the last 27 years! For more information about Walks near you, go to www.AchieveMagazine.com or snap a photo of this tag with your mobile device to go directly to the Amway Global Easter Seals site.

BOYS & GIRLS CLUBS OF AMERICA

Gardens Are Growing!

The new Amway Global Positive Sprouts project is helping Boys & Girls Club members in seven cities across the United States learn about good nutrition – by growing community gardens. Learn more about the project, check out photos of IBOs and Club members at work in the gardens, or find out about opportunities to participate at a Club near you by visiting www.AchieveMagazine.com. Clubs in Buena Park (Calif.), Denver (Colo.), Grand Rapids (Mich.), Orlando (Fla.), Philadelphia (Pa.), San Diego (Calif.), and Seattle (Wash.) are participating throughout the summer and fall.

Help for Haiti

disaster relief
HAITI EARTHQUAKE

Amway Global, its IBOs, employees, affiliates, and customers have given more than $1 million in cash, products, and services to our friends and neighbors in Haiti affected by the recent earthquake. Read about the impact of our gifts, and learn how you can join the rebuilding effort, in the next issue of ACHIEVE® magazine.

Additional One by One Programs

Amway Global supports several other national programs through the AMWAY ONE BY ONE CAMPAIGN FOR CHILDREN®, including the annual Today Show Toy Drive, youth mentoring programs through the U.S. Dream Academy, national sponsorship of The Bill of Rights Institute “Being an American” Essay Contest, and arts programs for children with special needs through VSA.

Share your ONE BY ONE stories at www.AchieveMagazine.com.

Setting the Stage in Maui

Maui was the setting for the opening session of the 2010 IBOAI Board, led by new Chair Steve Woods and Vice Chair Brad Duncan. The theme: "Preserving the Past, Enriching the Present, and Inspiring Hope for the Future!"

After new members took their oath of office, the Board identified their 2010 priorities for Amway Global IBOs. Among enhancements approved immediately with corporate leaders were new Fast Track Program incentives for all IBOs, new cash awards, free shipping for Platinums and above, and an expanded Achievers program—all are part of the new Boost to Qualify program.

The new Board also introduced new technology ventures: video reports of Board Meetings on www.iboai.com, webcasts hosted by leaders, and the use of sites like Facebook® and Twitter® and more Spanish-language messaging.

Running concurrently in Maui were Marketing Advisory Committee (MAC) sessions led by 2010 Chair Kathy Victor and Vice Chair Patsy Lizardi. In addition to discussions on new products, the MAC group welcomed Miss America Caressa Cameron—the new spokeswoman for ARTISTRY® products.

Maui was the first in a year of productive sessions ahead for the IBOAI Board and MAC.

Legendary Leaders

In the world of commerce, most leaders build business relationships. In the world of Amway Global, we build friendships as well. Everyone at Amway Global is indebted to these individuals for their business vision, their decades of leadership, and their heartfelt friendship.

– Doug DeVos

The final evening of Diamond Club—recognition night—is always highly anticipated and always special. New Diamonds lined the stage to take a bow to the applause of their peers. IBOs stood to be recognized for achieving new Diamond pin levels and to receive acclaim for their years of service—from five to more than 50! And, for an elite group, one of three new commemorative awards.
